The effects of globalisation on cultural diversity

1. Discovering K-pop music
2. Blending fashion styles
3. Fast food popularity
4. No borders for music
5. Variety of cuisines

As a result of globalisation, the world is becoming more and more connected. This has changed people's way of life, beliefs, art and customs, or their culture, in many respects. Although people's experiences around the world have become very similar, globalisation has also encouraged cultural diversity. Below are some examples.

A._____

Fast food chains and international restaurants have become popular, offering a wide range of dishes and more food choices to local people. For example, here in Viet Nam, we can enjoy Italian pizza or Japanese sushi, in addition to our traditional food. Moreover, some international dishes use local ingredients, which make them unique and more suitable to local tastes. On the other hand, Vietnamese specialties, such as pho and banh mi, are also gaining popularity worldwide.

B._____

Thanks to globalisation, people can quickly discover new music from all over the world. People nowadays enjoy listening to music from different countries and cultures, and in different languages. For example, American teens are captivated by K-pop music and dance. There are also many music festivals around the globe that bring artists and music fans together. In today's connected world, it is very common for musicians across the world to work on music projects and share ideas together.

C._____

Globalisation has also impacted fashion by opening it up to a variety of styles and influences from around the world. Cross-cultural styles that blend both traditional and modern elements are on the rise. This presents opportunities for fashion designers to be creative and reflect the cultural richness of the world. It is now easier for people to keep up with fashion trends from different cultures and regions, and express their identities in new and exciting ways. In conclusion, globalisation has helped strengthen cultural diversity in the world and made people appreciate different cultures and lifestyles.

Work in groups. Discuss the following question.

What are some other effects of globalisation on cultural diversity? Give some examples in the context of Viet Nam.

Gợi ý: - Globalisation has positively affected cultural diversity in language usage and cultural exchange. These effects are apparent in Vietnam in a number of ways.

Language Influence: The spread of English as a global language has affected communication in Vietnam. Although Vietnamese is still the primary language, English terms and phrases are increasingly being used in regular discussions, which is evidence of the influence of global communication trends.

Travel and Cultural Exchange: As a result of growing globalisation, Vietnam has seen an increase in tourism from individuals all over the world. Through this exchange of cultures, residents can socialize with guests, share customs, and discover other viewpoints. In addition, Vietnamese cuisine, traditional art forms, and festivals have gained international recognition, indicating that Vietnamese culture has become a global appeal.
